LANCÉ

Cheri,
I'm really glad that we are becoming friends. I hope that we will have more classes together next semester. Can't wait til we are seniors. +/+ for cramer.

Cheri was in last
of our friends
I hope you are having a great year with a lot of fun. You are going to be a great friend to me. I hope you are having a great year.
Always,
Shirley

Cheri,
wow! what a lunch hour! Oh well, I'm glad I got to know
you, school would be an awful drag if people
werent as nice as you!
Hope your next 2 years
are great.
Friends-
Amy J.

Cheri
I'm glad I got to know you better because your really nice and im glad your one of my friends.

And that was terrible picture,
especially me! and as usual
I don't know what else to say.
so ill see ya around
good luck this year and next love, Carrie

Cheri,
You've been a great friend! I'm glad we have classes together, well...
at least 1 - this year.
I'm glad we're still friends, & I hope we'll always be friends.

Remember... I'm always here if you have to talk to someone. do help
if I can. (I'll try, anyway.) You're a lot of fun to be my cu
Don't change too
much, okay!

Keep Smiling!!

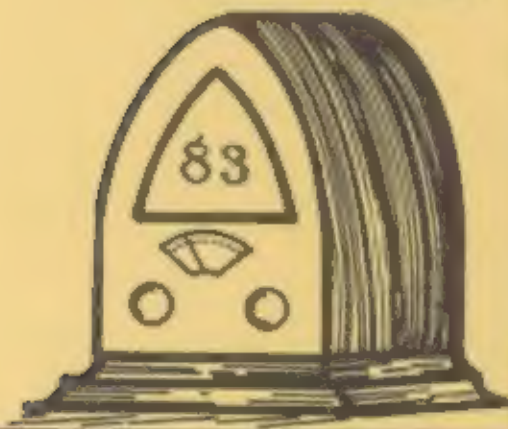

Ciao,
baby!

Love,
Beck

Cheri!
It was fun on the same bus. Too bad you not on my bus again.
Oh well, you're in my speech class. That's enough!
Just kidding
Ryan

Cheri,
Hi, I'm really glad
we become good friends.
I'm glad this year.
You're a great gal, friend, whatever. I hope we will always stay in touch.

Communication through music has always been a very unique and expressive method of conveying thoughts. With the advent of the radio, the possibilities were only broadened.

The carefree and bouncy music of the 1950's reflected the naivete and contentment of the generation, while in the 1960's, a rebellious youth made popular the innovative and sometimes "shocking" rock of groups like the Beatles and the Rolling Stones.

Today, the tone of the 80's is often one of fear and cynicism. The stripped-down sounds of punk rock voice these apprehensions, while softer forms offer hope and words of wisdom.

Every generation has its own unique style of music, each expressing with unparalleled emotion the sentiments and uncertainties of the age.

When students begin to feel as though they are all alone, a song on the radio seems to be written expressly for them. It is this affirmation that others go through the same things as well, that gives students a brighter outlook and sense of security.

People change and so do the songs, but one fact remains the same. Expression through music on the radio is one of the most cherished methods of communication in existence.

Confidence Provides Key To Coronation

The auditorium and gymnasium prepared, banners pieced together, and nominations completed, SCHS found itself prepared for the start of the Homecoming activities. Beginning with the mass, Fr. Bruce Clanton, S.D.S., emphasized individual inner strength and ability. Readings and a skit performed by the NYRFPTC promoted the idea of positive thinking. Likewise, Principal James Lemense reaffirmed these ideas at the Coronation ceremony. Believe in oneself provided the key to popularity and admiration.

As weeks of preparation came to an end tension mounted. Master of Ceremonies Chuck Metz presented the eighteen court members, giving their own humorous biographies. Returning 1981 Queen Mary Dziengel verbalized her congratulations to the finalists and praised their accomplishments. The "Count-down" began with the announcement of the first and second attendants and climaxed as King Ted Jansen and Queen Anne Schroeder took the throne. The first day of Homecoming prepared the students and faculty for the events yet to come.

Enthusiasm Soars During Festivities

Spirit and Colors Days festivities intensified the student body's spirit and excitement

On Spirit Day, the four classes, clad in costumes to depict the day's theme, "The Twilight Zone", competed to show thier superiority with relay races and tug-of-war contests. No particular class dominated the competition, however, the break from classes allowed students to relax and watch their classmates participate in various events

Excitement mounted on Colors Day as the student body lined the halls with their class colors. Outside, students enjoyed the annual picnic sponsored by SAC, during which a rock band, comprised of SCHS students, proved entertaining. Once inside, the pep assembly honored all of the fall sports teams. Highlighting the assembly, a newly formed boys' Pom-Pom squad provided a new dimension to the Homecoming activities

Enthusiasm prevailed throughout the days of Homecoming, allowing the student body to unite in school spirit

Bonfire Motivates Angels

The Homecoming Game and Bonfire brought the students and faculty of SCHS closer together. The Bonfire, a new idea in 1982, successfully replaced the parade by helping the students feel more unified and involved. Junior Anne Dziengel remarked, "I thought the Bonfire brought unity and spirit to the football team." Senior members of the football team presented their wills to add a humorous touch to the occasion.

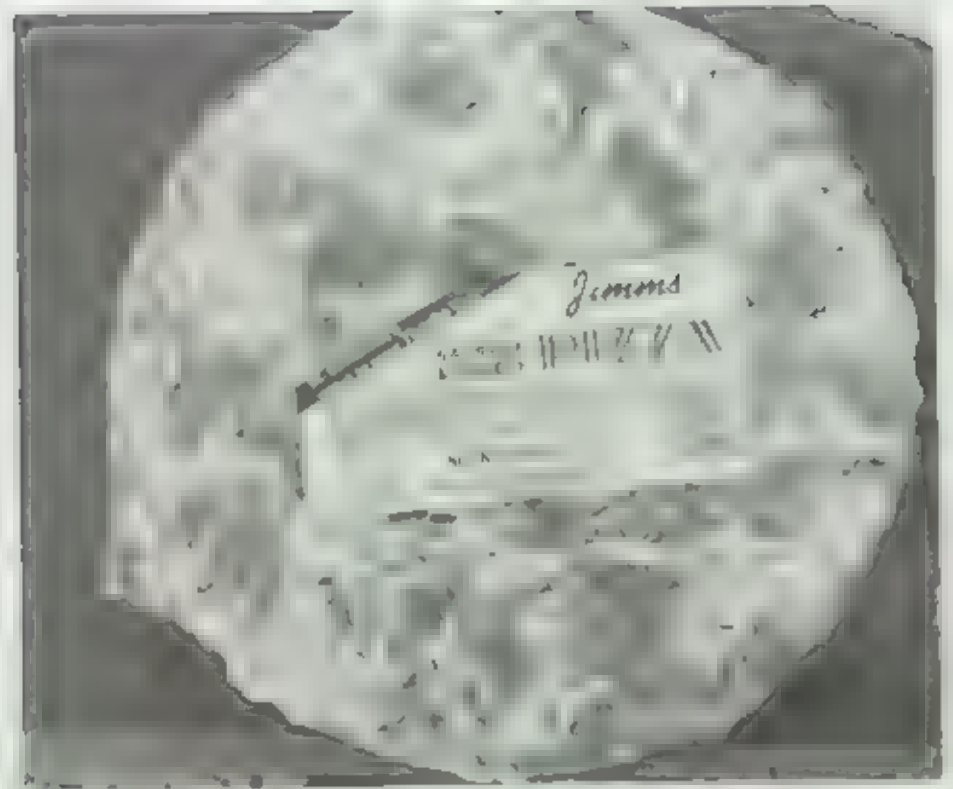

The Bonfire, held at Quarry Lake Park the night before the game, motivated the players to perform to the best of their ability the next day on the field. The Angels defeated Dominican 29-10. Their defense and offense formed a force that Dominican could not overcome. All in all, the Homecoming Game and Bonfire gave everyone a reason to celebrate.

SCHS Surpasses Goal

Despite the tight economy, a decreased SCHS student body managed to sell 5,000 more pizzas than last year. With a school total of 20,000 pizzas, by far their best job, the Day Food Company just could not keep up with the demand. The enthusiastic pizza sellers had to wait a couple of extra days for their backordered pizzas. And, as Dean of Students Ken Dopke said, "They're good kids that did an outstanding job."

Rally Meets Goal

Despite a slow start and a tight economy, the 1983 Patron Drive managed to rally in the final hours. A deluge of contributions on the last day brought in 24% of the total, which exceeded the $40,000 goal. The race between the classes to meet their individual goals ended with the seniors bringing in $11,830, just squeaking past the juniors' $11,309. The sophomores placed third with $9,355 in contributions. The grand total for the Patron Drive reached $44,194. Each student contributed, on the average, $46, making the cause a great success.

Changes Prominent In Lifestyle

Lifestyles of many American families changed drastically in 1982. Billy Joel's song "Allentown" reflected the mood of a nation touched greatly by the recession as the national 11% unemployment rate reached a post-World War II record, while Racine's unemployment records reached an unheard of 19%. With so many people out of work, the 200 job openings for press operators and welders at A.O. Smith Corp. turned out lines stretching across State Fair Park.

Because many out of work took out of their savings for essentials, families had to give up some forms of entertainment such as long vacations and many nights out. With this change, pay TV and home computers found their way into more homes than ever before. Increasingly more dependent on automation and speed, some experts believe that eight out of ten American families by the end of the 80's will have a home computer in their homes for such things as balancing a budget and turning house lights on and off.

Clutched by the magic word advancement, this society has placed a high price tag on technological knowledge. Even though most breakthroughs happen for the good of mankind, some believe that mankind pushes his luck too far. This past year many groups of people formed together to support the "No Nukes" cause. Since President Reagan increased defense spending, the whole country went into an uproar. Many wanted to know why the United States needed more weapons when the U.S. already had enough to blow up the world several times over. Others believed that since the Soviets will not stop creating new and better weapons, the U.S. should not let them gain an advantage over America.

The changes, craziness and chaos of American society showed through even in the weather. Wisconsin had an unusually mild winter with the temperature on Christmas Day climbing up to 60 sunny degrees. The New Wave movement found many new supporters and stepped out of the ordinary. Its main emphasis focused on bold, bright colors, wild hairdos, individuality and a rejection of all that could be considered normal. Even though New Wave gained a larger audience, the traditional Rock 'n Roll fans clambered to get tickets to the last WHO concert as soon as news spread that THE WHO would indeed come to Brew City. When people in the area found out that THE WHO would miss Milwaukee on their last tour, a giant campaign went underway to bring them to Milwaukee. WQFM's Tim the Rock 'n Roll Animal slept out on a ledge several stories up in the air to protest for three weeks before THE WHO finally said they would come to Milwaukee.

Throughout 1982 Americans pulled together to face hard times while using their creativity to strengthen their individual self.

Male Squads Exhilarate Students

Donning their dark glasses, narrow, black ties and checked skirts, they charged out onto the gym floor bringing the crowd to life. This was the scene at the Homecoming Pep Assembly and several other rare moments at SCHS. Never before had the school had a male pom pom squad of this caliber with such a large following.

After their debut at Homecoming, the squad generated more and more enthusiasm and soon became known as The Male Blues Pom Pom Squad.

Some months later, the Bluesmen attracted the attention of the local media by performing at a girls' basketball game and then participating in a competition at UW-Milwaukee where their opponents were all girls. They carried home the first place trophy for the props division.

"We didn't expect to win, but when we did, we were really happy," said junior Tom Vaile.

But this only marked the beginning. Soon PM Magazine took notice of the boys' original style and routine. A spot on the show in February resulted. They were such a hit that the PM crew returned to film another performance while focusing on the school itself.

After this presentation, the guys hung up their skirts and ties for the season, promising to return.

An idea that came up in a discussion over lunch as to how to add to the excitement at the girls basketball games and boost attendance gave birth to

The Guys' Cheerleading Squad

The group consisted of a variable number of Senior guys, but generally staying at about fifteen members.

Since their purpose was to fire up the crowd with comedy, they dressed in tacky pants, sports jackets and sun glasses and were rewarded for their efforts by the applause and cheers received from the audience and the support of the basketball players.

As Dave Rogan put it, "The Boys' Cheerleaders brought the necessary enthusiasm to the games."

Because of their spirit and enthusiasm, the boys were much appreciated by the girls' basketball team and the fans.

Changes Affect High School Activities

What many parents deem as "growing up" actually took place during the four years of high school. From academics to social activities to looks, many changes occurred. This time engendered many emotions—sometimes happy, sometimes painful—but always human.

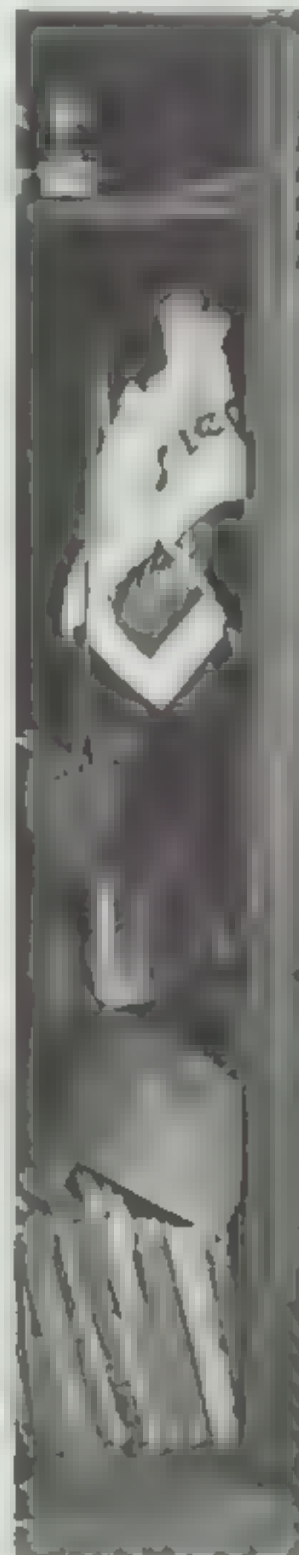

As freshmen the first day of school began with an early bus ride. For many this was an exciting adventure. As the year went by, however, the bus stop began to feel colder, the time seemed earlier, and the anticipation of a driver's license grew with each morning. As the first year ended, a sense of accomplishment conquered many. No longer were they on the bottom of the ladder.

Sophomore year suddenly looked appealing. Decisions needed to be made. There was a freer choice of classes, for many this meant challenges, for others, an easy year. Now, instead of gaining acquaintances, friends were selectively chosen. Tight bonds began forming between people.

The juniors, as upperclassmen, changed their social activities. Dating, now more serious and accessible, influenced the social lives of many and McDonald's was no longer the place to go. Personalities changed as a class and individually. They thought more and more of the future while contemplating the end of high school.

Finally senior year arrived. No longer intimidated by the upperclassmen, seniors exploded with new dress styles, fads, and concepts. Many were out to enjoy one last time with their high school friends before college divided them. They were bigger, stronger and louder. Most forgot what it was like to be an underclassman. The following year they'd relive many of the emotions they had felt three years ago. But for now, they would live for the present, enjoying their months of the freedoms of being on the top of the ladder.

SCHS Hosts Music Competition

SCHS hosted the WSMA Music Contest, which featured a large number of talented vocalists and bands. Students from all over S.E. Wisconsin joined together in this competition. Many contestants from St. Catherine's also participated in this event. Among those students, seven from SCHS went on to a state competition and received superior ratings. For St. Catherine's, the Music Contest was a success.

M*A*S*H Finale Concludes An Era

Characters

1983 marked the end of an era — after 11 successful years as a prime-time TV show, M*A*S*H finished with a two hour closing episode. Fans, saddened by the end of the series, gathered across the country to celebrate the show by watching the concluding episode together. People dressed as their favorite M*A*S*H characters, some in dresses, portraying Klinger.

M*A*S*H began as a movie starring Elliot Gould and Donald Sutherland. In the switch to TV, the principle roles were taken over by Alan Alda as Hawkeye and Wayne Rogers as Trapper John. Mike Farrell, as B.J. Hunnicut, later replaced Rogers' character. Other members of the cast included McLean Stevenson as the bumbling Henry Blake, Jamie Farr as the home-sick Klinger, Loretta Swit as Hot Lips Houlihan, and Gary Burghoff, the only member from the original movie to be cast in the TV series as naive Radar.

M*A*S*H's popularity stemmed from the quality of the writing and faultless character portrayal. Hawkeye, for example, was never at a loss for a joke, and Henry Blake rarely took the war seriously. Still, one quality never lacking in M*A*S*H was compassion. The 4077th always offered aid to the weary war victims who found themselves within the canvas walls of the mobile hospital.

Somehow, the viewer could never completely forget the indignities and injustices of the Korean War.

Season Opens Victoriously

With four returning lettermen, two of them seniors, the Boys' Cross Country Team got off on the right foot. The Angels managed to maintain their fast pace throughout the season, demanding everything the boys could give. While striving for individual progress, they also worked hard at improving their team scores, keeping in mind that every race counted. According to Coach Tom Scheller, the team wanted to be competitive throughout the whole season.

The team proved successful in their efforts to improve state and conference finishes over last year's. Led by their outstanding runner, freshman John Polzin, the varsity team finished second and fifth respectively, their best state finish since 1977. Teammates elected Mike Szabo and Steve Clementi co-team captains for their season-long contributions to the team. As a determined team, with Coach Scheller driving them on, it seemed impossible for them to fail.

Angels Break Thomas More Jinx

The Angels began the season with the hope of attaining many goals. According to Coach Welsh, the most prominent of these "was to improve upon last year's record and the team's overall attitude." The Angels did just that by ending a 10 game losing streak, when they defeated Thomas More 13-0. This first win of the season began the upward swing of personal attitude and team spirit, led by team Captain Rick Smetana. Team members included 15 returning seniors, and 11 lettermen. Several players received awards for their exceptional efforts. Mike Pirkel received the Team Player award. Marc Bodeau received the title of Outstanding Offensive Lineman, and the team chose Matt Kramer as the most Outstanding Defensive Player. Brian Poik had an excellent season as well, and received the Jim Feest award, and the honorary title of M.V.P. According to Brian, "Our team's attitude was great. Everyone was a competitor and wanted to win."

Volleyball Team Gains Respect

The team accomplished their goals of gaining respectability in conference and finishing with a better than 500 average. With a season record of 11-6 and placing third in regionals, the returning seniors, Kay Kawa, Marlene Ruetz, Maria Spieker and Jane Weitach, really finished off their last season with a job well done. # Soccer Team Experiences Learning Season

Beginning the season with a bang, the SCHS Soccer Team took first place in the Parkside tournament. Despite the powerful offensive of team captain Kevin Amter and the defensive strength of senior Wrye Martin and MVP Bryan Ortwein, the Angels placed third in the first Metro Soccer Conference. Coach Dave Hardt reflected, "We had a good learning season, even though we lost a few games that we should have won." Though they were a young team of fourteen, they had a 10-7-1 season. The team finished the season a little more experienced and a lot more mature

Tennis Team Strives Toward State

The Girls Tennis Team successfully attained its one goal in 1982 — to earn a place in the State Tournament. The team took second behind Prairie in Regional competition, insuring their berth at State. "We had a fine group of seniors this year, and the team as a whole was strong," Coach Cathy Poulson commented. The girls took eighth at State, wrapping up the season with a 9-3 record, a second place in Conference standings and a third place at the County tournament.

Many of the players received individual honors. Senior Sue Bukacek won first place honors in the Metro Conference tournament at #1 Singles, made the All-County First Team and was named team MVP. Senior Karen Burbach, #2 Singles, was named Team Captain. She was selected for the All-County Second Team, along with seniors Kelly Mess and Mary Hart at #1 Doubles. Senior Anne Schroeder received All-County Honorable Mention honors at #2 Doubles.

Coach Poulson summed up the team's performance by stating, "The girls worked hard, and I'm proud of them."

Young Team Proves Advantageous

With one returning letterman, Tris Ruffalo, the 982 Varsity Golf Team completed a successful season.

The team wanted to play up to their ability and try to win Conference and State. Fr. Slosar, the Angels coach, commented, "We went with a young team and we did well." The varsity team achieved an overall record of 10-5. They placed third in Conference with a 9-5 record, and the junior varsity placed second with an 11-3 record.

In addition to Molly Calkins, Maribeth Steimle joined the Angel team for the season. Thirty-five people contributed to the golf team, only eight of which can participate in a match. The other twenty-seven people, affectionately known as "The Eager Beavers," played intramural golf at Washington Park under Asst. Coach Sanders. This farm club atmosphere provided an area in which the golfers could improve and move up to Conference competition. All in all the golf team had a very good season.

Angels Finish 2nd To None

The Angels topped off their season with an excellent performance at the State tournament which resulted in the second place trophy. They began the tournament by easily defeating Green Bay Pre-montre. The momentum achieved from their first game enabled them to conquer Dominican in their second game. Matched with Marquette in the championship game, they faced an obstacle not easily overcome. In the earlier days of their season, Marquette had handed the Angels a loss, yet soon after, the Angels met them again and returned the favor. In the final game, however, the Angels fell to Marquette's powerful defense. Honored for their superior performance throughout the tournament, Pete Sinsky, Bob Letsch, and Dave Mueller acquired positions on the All-Tournament team.

Returning once again to the coaching staff of the Angel's basketball team, assistant Varsity Coach John McGuire truly accomplished a great deal. He became a major factor in the team's progress and success, as expressed by head coach Bob Letsch. "He's taught me alot, He's taught me all my basketball."

The Angel players surely gave the coaches valuable talent to develop.

Superior Play Makes For A Successful Year

Tied for second place in the Metro Conference, the SCHS girls' basketball team finished a successful year with a 17-6 record. While the girls felt disappointed not defeating Waukesha Memorial in the Region IV Semi-finals, their win over Milwaukee Lutheran by two points in a double overtime showed their determination to win. Becoming a contender in the Metro Conference, SCHS dominated the boards with the outstanding rebounding of Seniors Kathy Mueller, Maria Spieker and Marlene Ruetz.

The team voted Kathy Mueller MVP and Maria Spieker Team Captain. Kathy Mueller went on to make First Team Metro Conference, and Maria Spieker received an Honorable Mention.

Athlete's Feet Set The Beat

The Boys' Track Team had the opportunity to train the underclassmen with competitive teams while the upperclassmen enjoyed further success. With very talented returning seniors and enthusiastic younger blood, the Boys' Track Team experienced quite a season. Qualifying for the State meet, Steve Clementi, Matt Kramer, Daryl Garland, Nathan Buege, and John Pozin proved that hard work does pay off. The Boys' Track Team added two more coaches to their already outstanding staff. Terry Ackerman, new to the school's Math program and a marathon runner himself, truly contributed a great deal to the athletes and inspired their interest in running. And Gregg Hermann surely cannot stand unnoticed for all the time and effort that he spent with the team, especially those who did shot and discus. And returning for his sixth season as head coach, Tom Scheller continued to enrich the spirits of the athletes while he ran a strict and effective program.

Youth, Unity Bring Victory

Despite a slow start, the 1983 Girls' Track Team, comprised mainly of freshmen and sophomores, built a reputable record as the runners, throwers and jumpers gained experience. They started as a young team, with only six seniors, and grew in strength and experience with each successive meet. As injuries and illness befell some of the veterans on the squad, the scoring points fell increasingly on the shoulders of the underclassmen. They not only carried the burden willingly, but went on to qualify many team members for the State Meet. The unity of the team, their spirit and enthusiasm, carried them to victory and consoled them in defeat.

Tennis Team Advances To State Tournament

A strong team effort earned the Boys' Tennis Team a spot among the top eight teams in the state. Rick Meyers, second year Angel coach and former All-County Coach of the Year, helped prompt the team to many victories. Leading the team in singles competition, Senior Mike Meyers placed third in regional competition, while Sophomore Jason Caspers, number two singles player, placed first in regional competition. The number one doubles team of Tony Veranth and Andy Lane placed second in regional doubles competition. These victories were part of the team's success. As one Angel put it, "We try."

Angels Bat In A Winning Season

After a disappointing 8-0 loss to Thomas More in their season opener, the Angels jumped back on their feet. They won ten out of their next fourteen games. Eight returning senior lettermen helped to make the team strong and experienced. Right fielder Bil. Seitz added, "Coach Letsch really made a difference this year. If we have a good coach who we like and trust, we're apt to play to the best of our ability."

The Angels had a bid for State, but lost it when they were defeated in three of their last games. Rod Kuske said, "We were disappointed about not going to State, but we simply didn't come through in the end."

Winning Requires Work

The Girls Softball Team got off to a slow start, but the pace picked up resulting in many victories. With only one returning senior and one freshman, the team consisted mainly of sophomores and juniors. All members displayed their talent and enthusiasm at each game. In both winning and losing situations, the team encouraged and supported one another. Aside from the fun, time was spent for serious practice, working on the outfield, infield and individual batting. Each member proved their endurance and ability throughout the successful season.

Cheerleading & Pom-Pon Promote SCHS Spirit

The SCHS fans seemed to hush when they noticed a group of enthusiastic young women arriving on the court. With smiles on their faces, the 1983 Pom-Pon Squad energetically made their complicated routines look easy. All of them did their best to keep the school spirit burning. The Varsity cheerleaders kept the fans involved with their encouraging cheers. These dedicated young women also worked hard to make SCHS sports something to remember.

Admin. Initiates Many Changes

The people in the Administration kept SCHS running efficiently through thick and thin. The 1982-1983 school year could appropriately have been entitled Transition Year, for the Administration activated numerous changes. For instance, Mrs. Olson put computer scheduling into effect for the first time. The lunch schedule changes gave students a taste of bigger schedule changes to come. Furthermore, in order to undertake new responsibilities, the principal, James Lemense, delegated some of his old responsibilities to assistant principals Mary Olson and Ken Dopke. Mr. Lemense, along with the rest of the faculty, began developing a set of educational objectives. Initial plans were made for a capital fund drive. The harder part of the job includes finding out in which areas the money would most benefit a SCHS student in the years to come. Although these plans were instigated in the 1982-1983 school year, this project will take years to complete.

English Department Varies Courses

The English Department offered courses that appealed to all students. Through classes such as Shakespeare and British Literature, students had the opportunity to read classics that they might not have tried on their own. For students who wanted to write, Composition, Technical Writing and Creative Writing were some classes that gave them a chance to try different styles of writing. Freshmen and sophomores took classes to prepare them for the harder courses to come. Through the various channels of study offered, students were enabled to try something new.

Religion Department Looks With Favor

The Religion Department set St. Catherine's apart from the rest of the schools. Throughout the year, it gave the students of SCHS sound principles and values. The morality classes helped set guidelines in some questionable areas and Scripture taught students some of the important background forming the foundation of the Catholic faith. Then, before a student graduated, the Religion Department offered classes which gave the students information useful in understanding and overcoming life's trials and tribulations. # Computers Broaden Student's Horizons

The Math Department luckily acquired a new teacher Mr. Terry Ackerman, who taught Geometry and Pre-Calc with a flare. His unique teaching habits and personable ways led to great acceptance by SCHS students and faculty.

The Math Department successfully fulfilled students' interests in numbers and computers with many different courses and teachers. Students' interests in computers has increased greatly since last year. Because of this, the Math Department offered Computers and Society and Basic Programming in order to prepare students for the computer oriented world ahead of them. Mr. Seeger, recently introduced to the subject himself, hopes to have at least one more class next year. ## Science Prepares Students For Today . . . And Beyond

According to S. Therese Rotarus, head of the Science Department, the year's major goals were "to encourage students to question, examine learning process, all of which contribute to the success of a student. A good deal of stress placed on the students encouraged self-motivation and improving study skills. In addition to the regular science classes, the department also offered Basic Chemistry, a Life Science course and opened up Know Your Car to juniors. Highlighting the year, Know Your Car students rebuilt an engine, and Human Biology students toured St. Luke's Hospital.

Languages Harmonize Students

Although the SCHS Foreign Language Department decided to drop International Day from its annual roster and carry it every other year, 1982-1983 remained an active year for students taking foreign languages. Students in their first or second year concentrated on the fundamentals of grammar and vocabulary, while the third and fourth year students increased comprehension and ability to converse. The classes also planned meals which the cafeteria staff prepared and served during Foreign Language Week in March. Through the Foreign Language Department, students enriched their outlook on themselves and cultures other than their own.

Fine Arts Promotes Enrichment

Hidden in the dark recesses of the ground floor deep in the pit of Room 100 and secluded in the cold cavern of the auditorium lurked hundreds of students seeking more than just the basics of reading, writing and 'rithmetic. Besides developing academic skills SCHS students developed a solid background and appreciation for the fine arts. Although the school only required one semester of fine arts, many students participated in the program all four years of their high school education. Courses varied from the basics in 2-D Design, Freshman Chorus and Dance-1, to the complicated in Painting, Angel Arrangement and Advanced Dance.

Once again the Music Department produced three concerts, and the Art Department received recognition for its work. The Fine Arts Department helped throughout the year to enrich the St. Catherine's community.

- A. Relaxing at the piano, Fletcher Herrmann takes a break at the end of a long day.
- B. Junior Alkous presents Mrs. and Peyton with a gift of appreciation from her dance classes at the Christmas concert.
- C. Putting the finishing touches on their projects, Kevin Arnte and Monica Schwabe work during painting class.
- D. Betty Sargent explains the rudiments of using a protractor to Andy Small.
- E. Mr. Keith Ruelle conducts Anne Schneider and the Angel Arrangement at an all school mass.

Past Helps Shape Future

Enlightened by experience, the Social Studies Department encouraged students to delve into the past as well as to explore the present. The failures and victories their ancestors experienced shed light on some of the current politics that touched their lives.

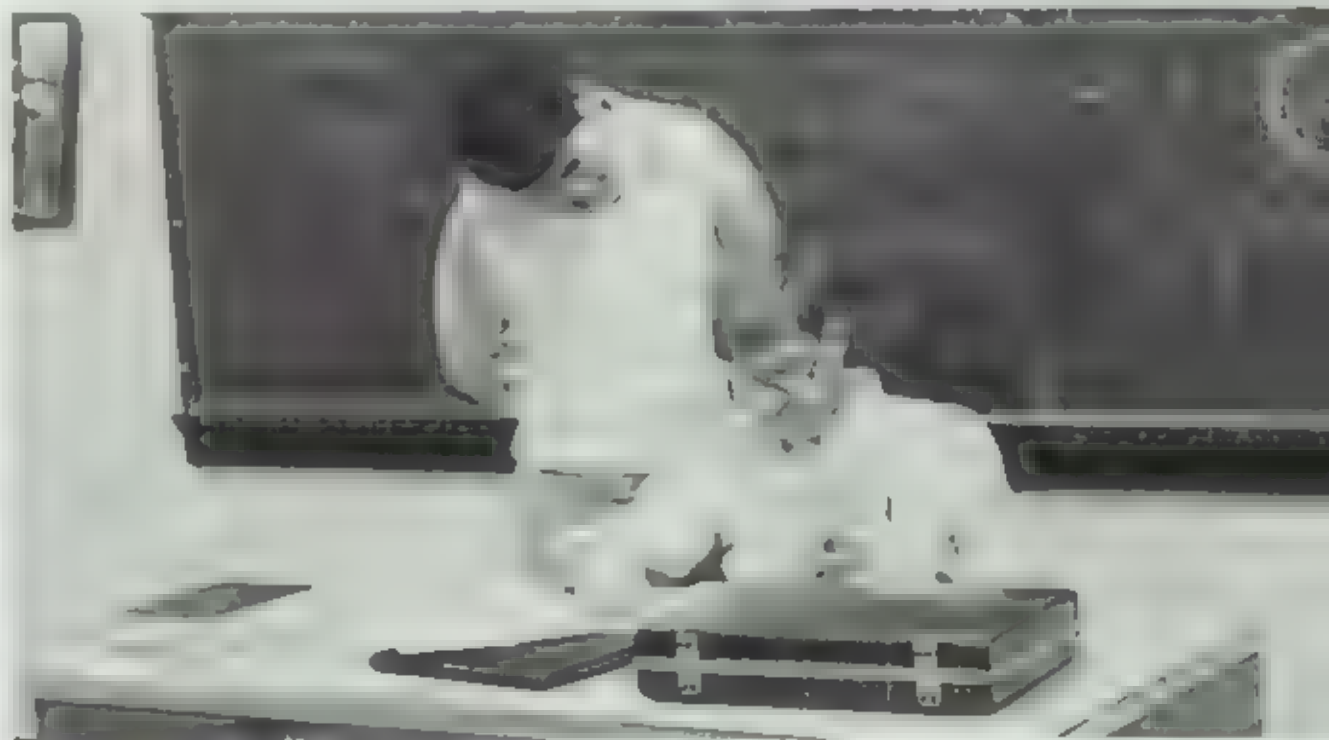

The students learned that in order to make responsible decisions that will weather change and time, foresight must be used. It is necessary to look back in history to discover what kind of thinking lasts. In the ancestries of the United States and other countries lie the answers for the future. Sensible and solid judgements became easier to make after cultures of today and yesterday were investigated.

Guidance Clarifies Future

Making decisions often causes teens much difficulty, especially when these decisions involve plans for the future. With this in mind, the members of the Guidance Department did their best to offer sound advice and shared the wisdom of their experiences.

Often, students needed just that experience. They had the benefit of a sensitive listener in the person of a counselor, as well as a sounding board for their thoughts and ideas. The counselors made themselves available to discuss school and personal problems, college entrance worries and even student/teacher disputes.

The counselors dealt with the many new challenges that confronted them and the students. Increased numbers of students found themselves searching for jobs and looked to the guidance department for aid. Also, the computer scheduling system, new this year, posed many problems for students used to the traditional system. Throughout the year, the guidance counselors helped confused students work out many of their dilemmas, and students can continue to count on them in the future for concern and help.

Business Dept. Enriches Students

Business classes played an important part of the academic curriculum at St. Catherine's. Some of the classes offered to students included accounting, shorthand and typing with advanced classes in shorthand and typing. These classes prepared students for careers in a wide range of fields making the courses a popular elective. Tools and skills which helped students learn organization and planning were provided by the Business Department.

According to Faith Popiawski, while working in the office there is "never a dull moment." From taking absentee calls to collecting tuition, the office staff kept on their toes and made sure everything got done.

Along with the changing times and ways came changes throughout the school. Computers altered the ways of the office making the work easier and even a little fun. Though complicated at times, the work always got done, thanks to the office.

Library Provides Learning Atmosphere

The pleasant atmosphere of the library provided a quiet place for students to study for exams, write research papers, or to just sit back and read. This room full of helpful information supplied books of all kinds from encyclopedias to classics. Students and faculty were able to pick out a mystery, adventure, fantasy, or anything else in quiet reading conditions. With the many helpful people in the library, one was sure to find the right book. The perfect place for students to learn from and enjoy the many different books is that quiet little room, the library.

Satisfaction Guaranteed

Back by popular demand, the kitchen staff offered breakfast to the students and faculty of SCHS. Everyone respected and appreciated the staff for the time and effort that they applied to their work. They also provided various feasts to celebrate the holidays. Besides having prepared meals for four lunch hours, they created a friendly atmosphere

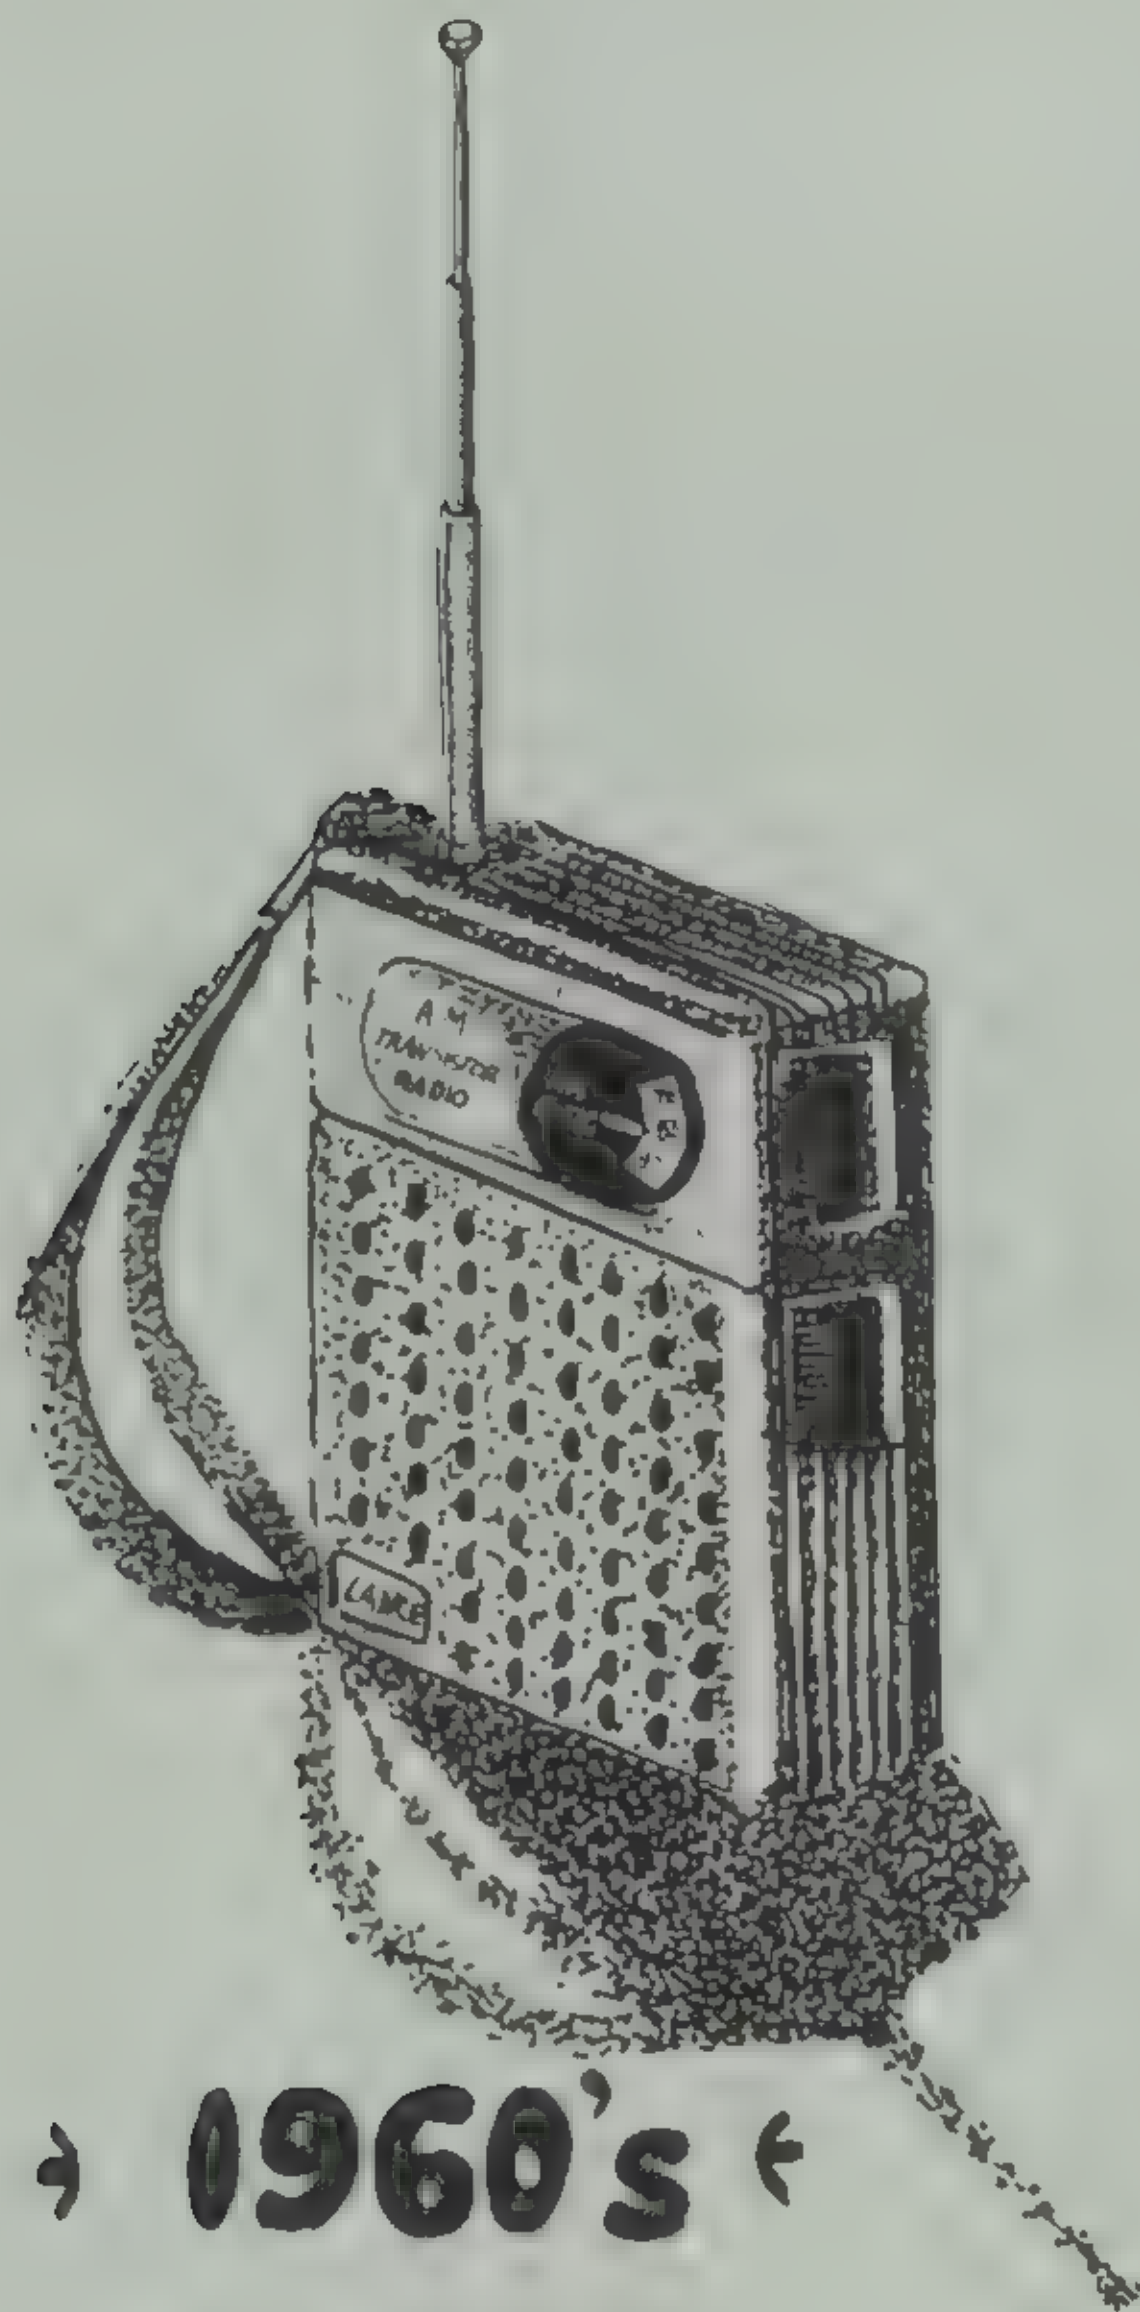

St. Catherine's owes the beauty and neatness of the hallways, classrooms, restroom facilities and cafeteria to the hardworking maintenance crew. # Student Government And NHS Service SCHS

The Student Affairs Committee and Class Officers regrouped themselves this year. Instead of students running for a particular office, the top four vote-getters divided the duties among themselves. SAC also reorganized by decreasing its membership, making the Class Officers full members, and adapting a new constitution. SAC and Class Officers planned the Homecoming activities and raised $900 for the Patron Drive.

The National Honor Society became more actively involved in SCHS. The group sponsored doughnut days, offered its services as ushers and assistants for various school events and tutored other students.

These three groups together performed many valuable services for SCHS.

Shield Exposes Different Views

The Shield provided a place for students to voice their opinions and showcase their journalistic talents. Much of the material came from the Technical Writing classes, the rest being the product of staff members and student submittals. Issued 5 to 8 times annually, the newspaper gave its readers the chance to learn about many different topics and to expose themselves to varying viewpoints.

Lettermen Benefit SCHS

Composed of lettermen ranging from sophomores to seniors, the Boys' and Girls' Monogram Clubs put forth tremendous effort to make this year athletically successful. Both clubs strove to keep up a respectable grade point average and found time to put in extra hours after school in various activities. Many sophomores struggled to acquire positions among the upperclassmen, thus providing coaches with essential hope for the future.

The Boys' Monogram Club, under the leadership of their President Ted Jansen, sold candy on a regular basis in the school cafeteria and occasionally during the Varsity basketball games.

The boys took pride in preparing numerous Christmas baskets for needy families. Not only did both clubs provide SCHS fans with year round entertainment, but they also boosted school spirit and morale.

Activities Occupy Department

The Music Department participated in many extra activities throughout the year. During Christmas vacation, the Concert Choir performed for the annual holiday program for the employees of Johnson's Wax. Twice during March, SCHS and the department hosted the State Large Group and Solo and Ensemble contests. The band, in the meantime, was preparing to play for the musical "No, No, Nanette." In addition to the annual concerts, the department took part in other activities.

Red Cross Embodies Spirit Of Giving

As their main goal, the Red Cross Club tried to be a service to the community. It sponsored the Blood Drive and for the past three years has averaged 70 pints per year. For their Christmas project they made tray favors, candy in Christmas containers and distributed them at a nursing home. The funds they raised by selling M&M's went towards sending their members to classes in leadership. All in all, the Red Cross Club succeeded in acting out the true spirit of giving.

Helping Proves Rewarding

The Hostess Club added a touch of generosity and abundant service to the St. Catherine's community by happily waitressing and baking. Members provided delicious home-baked breads and cookies for coronation as well as for other social events. In addition, the girls volunteered their time and energy at class reunions and annual Santa Claus luncheon. All in all, this group demonstrated how rewarding and fun helping others can be.

Clubs Sample Foreign Culture

A great asset to the school, St. Catherine's Foreign Language Clubs are an important ingredient in achieving fluency in different languages. While classtime focuses mainly on the academic side of a language, through the clubs students experience the cultural side, as well. More than just an opportunity to practice speaking, activities include sampling food, music and customs typical of the respective cultures.

The clubs' large memberships and great appeal is largely due to the fact that the activities are chosen by the members. Through foreign language clubs, students can get broader views of different cultures than available through classtime alone.

NYRFPTC "Look With Favor"

The Not Yet Ready For Prime Time Christians (NYRFPTC) arranged and participated in many masses and prayer services. During these gatherings the group acted out skits or small plays to get across some message.

At the St. Patrick's Day mass the group acted out the story of "Stone Soup," where members dressed up as ingredients of the soup. They held the audience's attention in getting their point across in a skit rather than simply reading it.

"I really enjoyed acting in the skits and being a part of the mass rather than looking on," remarked junior Andrea Landry. With aid from Rev. Bruce Clanton and Anne Frontier, several overnights and retreats provided an environment for growing and learning.

The NYRFPTC also contributed to the newly created favor board which recognized students for their good deeds. Throughout various activities the NYRFPTC carried out the "Look with Favor" theme.

Monopoly Club Materializes

Beginning in 1982, a new and different sound filled the after hour hallways of SCHS. In the cafeteria, students under the watchful leadership of advisor Rev. Bruce Clanton took a trip through a land of make believe. They searched for, and often found fortune through ownership of such plots as Boardwalk and Parkplace. Conceived by Wrye Martin and Jerome Holbus, this unique club took form and solidified. They elected officers and planned meetings. With one of the largest memberships of any club, SCHS saw the birth of its first Monopoly Club.

In the words of President Wrye Martin, "Our main objective is to provide an alternative in after school activities for students who are not involved elsewhere."

Crews Make The Difference

Each afternoon, when most students have gone home a special group of people remains. Their home is the SCHS stage, and they are the members of the crews. Stage, props and costumes crews help make the school's productions the best they can be, with imaginative scenery and elaborate costuming. It is those little extras like an old-fashioned telephone or makeshift spiral staircase that make a play special. A lot of hard work is put in by all three crews, especially during the spring musical when everyone goes all out. Nevertheless hard work never stopped these people before. In fact, they seem to thrive on it.

Comedy Aids Season

Comedy proved to be the basic ingredient in the 1982 Player's summer season. The season opened with "Room Service," written by John Murray and Allen Boretz, a play involving the trials and tribulations of a Broadway producer lacking funds to stage his first production. Following this success was the modern classic "The Women" by Clare Booth Luce, which added drama to the season by showing the unflattering sides of women and the society in which they live. "Critic's Choice," written by Ira Levin, put the finishing touches on the season. The plot focused on a drama critic put in the awkward position of reviewing his wife's first play. All in all, this twelfth season delighted all attending.

- A Russian recitation is Sasha Smirnov's (Andy Miller) specialty
- B Storeclerks eavesdrop on Mrs. Haines (Kathy Biddle) conversation with Crystal Allen (Michelle Paulsen)
- C Making plans to produce a play are Gordon Miller (Mike Black), Faker Englund (Tony Koleske), Harry Binion (Steve Farr) and Christine Marlowe (Lisa Schoene)
- D Gordon Miller (Mike Black) and Faker Englund (Steve Farr) and Timothy Hogarth (Steve Lachowitz) are off on a mission

- F Angela Ballantine (Joni Moore) shows her pleasure with the run of events
- G Dr. Glass (Chuck Metz), Faker Englund (Tony Koleske) and Christine Marlowe (Lisa Schoene) try to diagnose Leo Davis' (Nathan Buege) condition

S.O.T.M. Opens New Season

The Players opened their season with "The Servant of Two Masters" by Carlo Goldini (English version by Edward Dent). This play, providing many memorable experiences, gave the players the opportunity to create their own personality to make each character unique.

The action took place in three different locations. At the start of the play, Beatrice came to Venice with her servant Truffaldino. Disguised as her murdered brother Federigo, she attempted to collect all of the money owed to him. While in Venice, Beatrice also searched for her lover Florindo Aretusi, who had fled from justice after murdering Fedengo.

Truffaldino, discontented with Beatrice's treatment of him, accepted another job with Florindo, not realizing that the two were in search of each other. Through Truffaldino's actions, he convinced each master that the other was dead. In the end, Beatrice revealed her true identity for the love of Florindo while Truffaldino exposed his double employment for a love of his own.

Christmas Play Begins Tradition

To begin a new yearly tradition, Charles Dickens' "A Christmas Carol: Scrooge and Marley" brightened the SCHS stage for a second season.

Now firmly established as the Christmas play for years to come, the players presented "A Christmas Carol" to an audience lacking slightly in attendance to last year's record. Their goal, however, was to spread Christmas spirit and give the gift of entertainment.

Nathan Buege starred as the miserly old Scrooge who experienced the visits of three Christmas ghosts. Scott Riddler played the deceased Jacob Marley who came back to haunt his old business partner and urge him to change his ways.

This was Rev. Russell Roetzer's first attempt at bringing back a successful play for a second year. The newly established tradition will continue for many years.

- A. The Ghost of Christmas Present (Pete Verheven) explains to Scrooge (Nathan Buege) the symbolism of the two children.
- B. Jacob Marley (Scott Riddler) laughs disturbingly at the onset of Scrooge's adventure.
- C. Scrooge finds Future's (Andy Bruett) ominous message unsettling.
- D. The Cratchits-Front Row: Tiny Tim (Joey Frontier); Row 2: Martha (Elaine Grubber), Belinda (Lori Robinson), Peter (Jim Watson); Mrs. Cratchit (Connie Kowalski) and Bob (Chris Marshall).
- E. Scrooge carefully listens to pleas for money from Portly (Pete Verheven) and Thin (Lisa Schoene) Do-Gooders.
- F. Scrooge attempts to clarify the vision the Ghost of Christmas Past (Lisa Schoene) has revealed to him.

Musical Enhances SCHS Spirit

Rev. Roetzer once again successfully directed another musical, "No, No, Nanette." The show was well attended every night.

Nanette, bored with her life, wanted "to raise a little hell" before marrying Tom. So

Uncle Jimmy took Nanette with him to Chickadee Cottage while he took care of a little business matter. It seemed his joy of giving away money had gotten him into trouble with his wife, Sue.

Billy acted as his lawyer to pay off Flora, Betty and Winnie to leave Jimmy alone.

With all this confusion, Lucille thought her husband, Billy, was having an affair with the three women. In the end everything worked out.

Set in the 1920's, this musical became known for its fine musical score and fast dancing. Highlights of the show included "I Want to be Happy," "Tea for Two" and "Take a Little One Step." All the hard work and dedication could be seen in each individual cast member as they appeared on the stage.

A. Sue Smith (Connie Kowalski) thanks her husband Jimmy (Peter Verheyen) for the candy.

B. The cast enjoys tea dancing at the Marlborough Blenheim Hotel.

C. Disgusted with her job, Pauline (Kris Verbeten) yells at the vacuum cleaner.

D. The ensemble boys make Nanette happy.

E. Winnie (Beth Kramer), Betty (Karen Kowalski) and Flora (Elizabeth Doll) show their affection for Uncle Jimmy.

F. Plans for a home of their own make Nanette (Anne Schroeder) and Tom (Andy Bruett) smile.

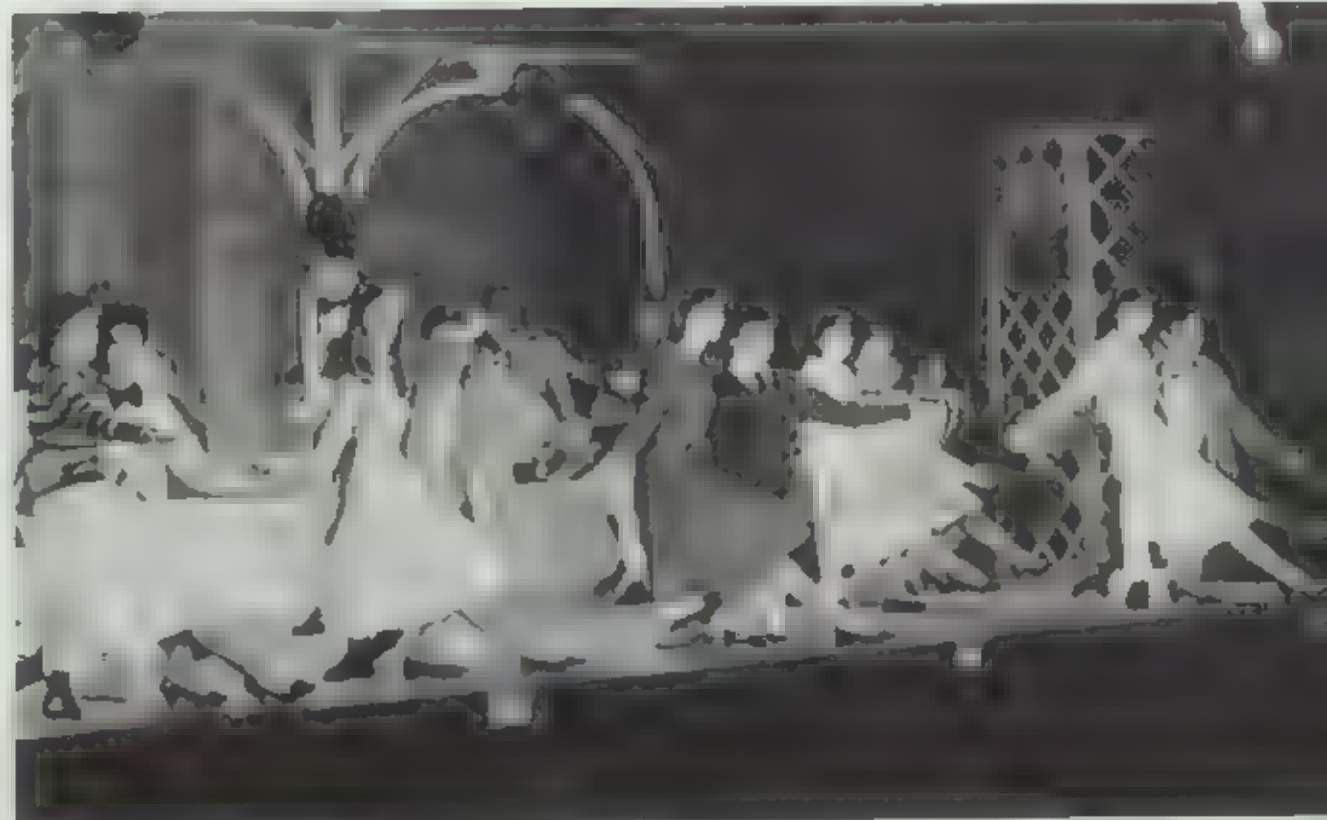

G. Lucille Early (Lisa Schoene) flirts with her husband Billy (Nathan Buege).

Two Casts Fill Three Bags Full

In the closing of the 1982-83 season, many students received the opportunity to show off their talents with a double cast, the first in thirteen years. The show began as Richard Foyle came roller skating onto stage. He brought news that he stole half a million dollars to impress Barlow's daughter and planned on marrying her. He told Barlow he hid the money in two separate bags, divided into diamonds and $100 bills. Barlow sent him out to get the money.

After Foyle left, a strange girl came to see Barlow and said that she made up the lie of being his daughter in order to impress Foyle. Barlow promised the girl he would straighten everything out.

Later, Foyle brought back one of the bags. Throughout the rest of the play, the bags got mixed up with the maid's clothes bags.

In the end, he finally got a hold of all three bags and wouldn't let go of any of them for fear he would end up with the wrong two.

A Richard (Nathan Buege) explains to Bascom (Scott Riddler) how the roller skate works.

B Thinking that her husband has gone crazy, Genevieve (Connie Kowalski) listens attentively to Bascom (Scott Riddler).

C Mr. Cottingham (Steve Lochowitz) reprimands his son Preston (Chris Stratman).

D Angela (Lisa Schoene) recites from a favorite book.

E Jeanette (Becky Shack) showers Richard (Nathan Buege) with affection.

F In the final scene, Richard (Tony Koleske) and Genevieve (Kris Verbeten) see that Bascom (Pete Verheyen) was not lying about the three bags.

Freshmen Harmonize With Student Body

This past August, a new group of freshmen roamed the halls of SCHS. They found many obstacles to overcome before they could establish themselves as a class: disproving the typical stereotypes freshmen face, getting to know the people behind the faces they saw, and finding out more about themselves. But, the many activities at school gave them a chance to help their school, as well as their class. During Homecoming, the freshmen got a chance to get acquainted with one another while competing against the other classes. And to help their class treasury, they sponsored the last dance of the first semester. This year aided the individuals in forming the class of '86

Sophomore Spirit Prevails

The Sophomores displayed an abundant amount of spirit throughout the year, but they shone even more brilliantly during Homecoming Week. Red proved to be the dominant color on Colors' Day and the Sophomores expressed their individuality and uniqueness on Spirit Day. Their cheers rang out with enthusiasm and support for the girls tug-of-war team and the Junior Varsity football team, who defeated Messmer 27-0 as a part of their Homecoming celebration. Sophomore athletes earned positions on many Varsity teams, and their efforts during the Pizza Sale and the Patron Drive contributed greatly to the unity of the school.

Their second year at St. Catherine's brought the Sophomores one step closer to maturity, opened new doors, widened dimensions as they socialized and cooperated with fellow classmates and faculty, and drew them closer through the untimely death of their friend Rachel Gutkowski. The class of 1985 recovered and then continued their studies in other challenging areas.

Juniors Display Unity

The Junior Class, even though less in number than in their sophomore year, knew how to work together. During Homecoming Week festivities, their relay team won the race on Spirit Day. The boys pompon squad, comprised mainly of junior boys, dazzled the pep assembly crowd on Colors Day with their innovative routines, stylish costumes, and acrobatic skills. The class also worked together to plan the Winter Formal dance and the Senior Prom.

In addition to working with their own class members, many juniors participated with other classes in clubs and team sports. Their involvement in these activities enriched St. Catherine's by offering a good example of sportsmanship and cooperation for underclassmen to follow.

Humor Highlights Senior Class

Throughout the year, the seniors made it clear that their last year at SCHS was going to be their best one. Even while muddling through classes like Composition and Life's Vocations, the students kept spirits high and made the best of every moment. Some of this zest and light-hearted feeling came through in the shape of the boys' cheerleaders. These enthusiastic, if somewhat unconventional, guys attended girls' basketball games to cheer the girls on. All in all, the seniors left a lasting impression and a lot of happy memories behind them.

Individuals Begin Again

Senior Class President Marc Bodeau commented that when the Senior class began at SCHS as Freshman each came from a different individual background. Yet, in spite of differences they united together to work as a class, perform as a class and achieve as a class. Certain days they put aside their individuality to wear the colors of their class. The 234 individuals united together to form one unit, whole and strong. During their Graduation Mass they sang together as one and remembered together as one.

They shared the Eucharist together one last time as one unit. The following night, as one being, they filed into the Gymnasium and took their seats. The band played, and the Concert Choir sang, and the class listened again as one.

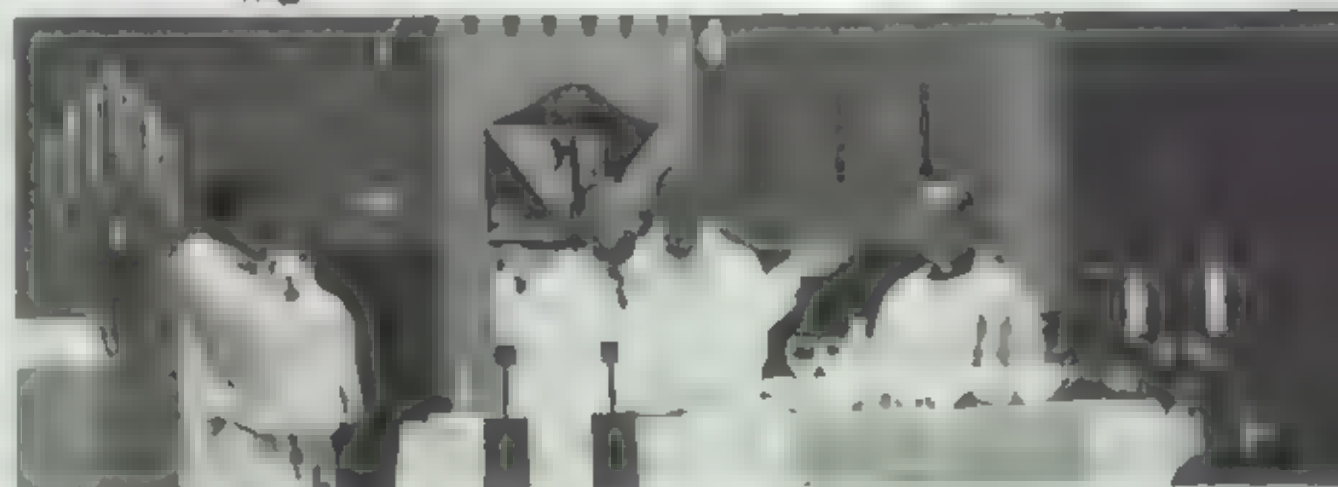

Finally, as Anne Schroeder read the names and Principal James Lemense handed out the diplomas, the class of 1983 ended their history at SCHS as one.

One by one, as the graduates returned to their seats and stared at the signatures on their diplomas they realized, as one, that in a sense they were no longer one.

With the diplomas and all the pomp and circumstances came the return to the status of individuals. In a sense they would always be one, but the time had come at last to begin again as individuals.

E Senior Marc Bodeau welcomes the family and friends of the Class of 1983 to join in the celebration of commencement

F At the end of the Alma Mater the Seniors express their joy by taking off their hats to SCHS on last time

G A cap, a diploma, a tassel and a program serve as the lasting reminders of an end and a beginning

And to all of the Seniors, I bequeath the three following gifts that are so important in my life. Remember them, they are a test question. The first begins with the letter F. I bequeath you our Faith. What did Christ say? What does it profit a man if he gains the whole world and loses his soul. Hey, my faith in God and what he taught: to love Him and love my neighbor, is the strongest gift in my life. Your parents planted that seed of faith in you when you were young. I hope it was nurtured for you these past four years at St. Cat's. May your faith in God continue to grow stronger throughout the years.

"My second bequeathal is my strong belief in the family. Give your folks a big hug and kiss to show them that despite the arguments and occasional show of temper, that you love them dearly and that you appreciate the many sacrifices they've made for you. And those of you going away to school in the fall, write them. Don't just call them collect or write when you need money. I love my family; I hope you love yours always.

"And my third and final gift I bequeath to you is my sense of humor, perverted though it may be sometimes. I don't know how you can get through life all that easily if you can't laugh at yourself or try to make others laugh. It's helped me through some difficult times in my own life and it will help you too. I hope you have a sense of humor!

"Your Faith, your family, and being able to laugh-my bequeathals to you. And as Toma said to you as freshmen, We love you. God bless you all!"

Seniors Look With Favor

While the Seniors spent the year looking with favor, they also received numerous favorable glances themselves. For their contribution and dedication to the school, SCHS honored 13 individuals with St. Catherine's Awards. The Seniors in turn presented special awards of recognition to eight individuals for their contributions to the class of 1983 and to the school as a whole. Finally, Rev. Schneider honored 72 parents whose last child graduated. He gave special recognition to the Holbus family which put 13 of their children through St. Catherine's over a period of 24 years. All in all, the year ended favorably for everyone involved.

Seniors Celebrate New Beginnings

With the theme It's Our Turn, the Seniors formally ended their tenure at SCHS on June 1, 1983. Dressed to the tens, the Seniors and their escorts assembled in the cafeteria to bid farewell to the school but also to celebrate a new beginning. The festivities continued at Memorial Hall with the Rotary Club's all-city dance. The all-night dance concluded at sunrise with hot air balloons rose to celebrate the all-city theme, Up, Up And Away.

If a man does not keep pace with his companions,
perhaps it is because he hears a different drummer.
Let him step to the music which he hears,
however measured or far away.

Henry David Thoreau

Cheri,
It was nice having you in Biology & even in the lunchroom (work Hn.) last year. Spunky was such an anus face, huh? Well, I'm sure will have alot of blasts with Scheller & good times with Drummond (oh, those blue eyes).
What ya think? I know you dont look at his eyes, right? Well, keep dreamin' about Jim, and maybe someday when your in Kenosha & his there too you'll run into each other, ok?
Well, you're a great friend & keep on partying.
Don't forget that next year will be #1. Right?
grinds always,
Eileen

Sorry so sloppy

Cheri,

You ~~primz~~!! You're
Such a great friend! You're Super to be with!! I really AM gl'd I got to know you! You know we have scribbled! But I think we're losing it! (Especially on the Bus!!) Take care Baby!
Love Super!

Friends.

Cheri,
What a huh? I'm glad I have you in my D+D class even though it's very boring. I may do we can maybe do this something well
is cool. we're hope so
